DETAILED ACTION

Response to Arguments

1. Applicant's arguments filed 1/15/2004 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. Sugawara discloses an invention that is extremely similar to the one being claimed. The distinction that the applicant wishes to establish lies in the precise format in which the reference table is drafted. The examiner respectfully disagrees. On column 8, lines 30-38, Sugawara states that "first the temperature... is detected... then substantially at the same time, the output of the barometer is taken... and a temperature compensation value is acquired from a table of air pressure versus temperature." In another words, a temperature compensation is generated according to an air pressure class. And from the remainder of flowchart 4, the temperature adjustment is made with the fan according to the temperature and pressure readings.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

2. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by US Patent 6,322,218 to Sugawara et al.

In reference to claims 2 and 3, it can be seen from Sugawara's disclosure and figure 3, that he teaches a liquid crystal projector system with an internal temperature sensor (item 30), an air pressure sensor (item 32) and a control unit for controlling the number of revolutions of a cooling fan on the information provided from the two sensors (column 7, lines 65 – column 8, line 1 and column 8, lines 10-19). Sugawara also discloses a projector system with a cooling fan driving circuit (figure 3, items 46) a table for storing the temperature and control voltage for the cooling fan (column 10, lines 55-64) at air pressures. The control voltage used to drive the cooling fan is determined using the values obtained from the air pressure and temperature sensors (figure 4 and column 8, lines 33-43).

Conclusion

3. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
